Harnessing Light: Illuminating Lighting in Adolf Loos’s Early Commercial Designs
by Elise Wasser King
Article 2012 | Peer-reviewed
Adolf Loos is now celebrated as an early critic of ornament, a prophet of modernity, but less recognized for his equal attention towards light...

for added interest in the interior, he employed a great deal of artificial lighting in the café. He drew on subtle uplighting and ambient downlights to illuminate the interior. But to move light through the space, Loos also included mirrors and other reflective materials, a technique he would later use in the Kärntner Bar.
